

Dependent Eligibility: Required Documents

At Milton CAT, we partner with employees to manage our health care costs, and one way to do this is by ensuring that only eligible dependents are enrolled in our plans. So before you hit the ground running, it's important to verify that all of your enrolled dependents meet the required eligibility criteria.

The following is a list of all dependent eligibility documentation requirements for health benefits coverage for dependents.

For a Spouse

- Married one year or less – A government issued marriage certificate is sufficient.
- Married more than one year – A government issued marriage certificate AND one of the following:
 - A federal tax return filed within the last two years confirming the dependent is your spouse

For a Child

- Biological child: Government issued birth certificate including parents' names
- Adopted Child: Copy of government issued birth certificate AND copy of the Court's final adoption certificate/deed placing the child with you. (If Court's document includes the child's DOB, the birth certificate isn't required).
- Step child: Must be spouse's child. One of the following combinations of documents are required:
 - Government issued birth certificate including parents' names AND a government issued marriage certificate if married for one year or less.
 - Government issued birth certificate including parents' names AND a government issued marriage certificate AND federal tax return filed within the last two years listing spouse as a dependent
 - Government issued birth certificate including parents' names AND government issued marriage certificate AND proof of joint ownership or proof of cohabitation issued within the last six months
- Legal Ward – Government issued birth certificate AND the court ordered document of legal custody
- Tax Dependent Child – Government issued birth certificate AND the federal tax return filed in the previous year listing the child as a dependent

Disabled Child—for children age 26 and older only:

NOTE: Disabled status for any child requires current medical certification from the health plan in addition to the documents listed below.

- Natural Child—copy of government issued birth certificate AND a copy of your government issued marriage certificate AND a copy of your Federal Tax Return claiming child within the past 2 tax years
- Adopted Child—copy of the Court's final adoption certificate/deed placing the child with you AND a copy of your Federal Tax Return claiming child within the past 2 tax years
 - Step Child—copy of government issued birth certificate AND copy of your government issued marriage certificate AND a copy of your Federal Tax Return listing spouse and claiming child within the past 2 tax years

NOTE: To maintain confidentiality, if submitting your federal tax return, please redact all financial information and only send page 1 listing you and your spouse as your dependent.